

Stephen G. Post

Hello Friends:

From the Irish Times today:

“I was also fortunate to encounter the writings of a range of visionaries early in my career, particularly Stephen Post (The Moral Challenge of Alzheimer Disease, 1995) and Tom Kitwood (Dementia Reconsidered, 1997) who emphasised the wholeness of our personhood in dementia, albeit challenged by barriers of memory and language from our usual patterns of social engagement.”

‘Our grandparents’ dementia didn’t matter to us as children’

It is nice to see that one’s work has some cultural impact.

Stephen
